

Thor Thorvaldsson is an Icelandic singer/songwriter and multi-instrumentalist based in Munich. Born on the Westman Islands (a small island on the south coast of Iceland) he moved to the capital Reykjavik where he took his first steps in music in his childhood and teens. Starting out playing the drums he also found his passion in playing the guitar, writing his own music and songs. In his twenties, Thor studied classical music and opera singing as well as working as a singer and musician in Iceland, having the fortune to work with artists such as Björk and Sigur Rós. In the year 2008 Thor moved to Austria for further singing studies where he founded the band High and Low, releasing his debut album Narrow Road in 2012. Thor mostly writes acoustic pop songs with a melancholic touch, flavored with the sound of his deep and sonoric voice.
